COWS FIGHT OVER PUMPKIN BEFORE DISAPPEARING!

By Jack G. Jager

Image used with permission. Credit: Jack Jager. Cow's deserted field

An odd behavior was noticed when two cows began to fight over a pumpkin. It was interesting due to the unique combat method. The cows appeared to butt heads and kick the other cow. Why do cows fight over meager things like this? When just two and a half months ago, the cows had incredible displays of sophistication now they have regressed to this!?! The victor was unclear, but the affect was interesting. The cows appeared to have started to split off from one another. It could be winter, but they have been fewer and farther between. One funny (But probably not true but heck, I'll put it in but it's just a theory) theory is that the cows are preparing to rebel against the humans and establish cows as the supreme rulers of the farm. Another more plausible (but still very far-fetched) theory (I like this one the best) is that the cows are moving into the woods to create a cow-only town in the trees like Ewoks. Yet another crazy theory is that the cows have a hidden village (Like the Ewok theory) where they live without humans peacefully. Another crazy theory is that the cows would like to not get eaten and are running away. Still another theory is that the cows are going on vacation in Lake Jane. Another crazy theory is that the cows want to go to Florida and are forging plane tickets. Why does it seem that cows are leaving us? More on this expanding story soon.

White squirrel spotted in neighborhood!

By: Jack G. Jager

Facts from ncfeldfamily.org

One day, Minneapolis residents spotted a rare white squirrel on the 5000 block of Washburn Avenue. Some people think that the white squirrel has special powers. Is this really the truth? Or is this just another urban legend? In this week's column I will explore the myths and facts about white squirrels.

White squirrels and albino squirrels are not the same thing. An interesting story about white squirrels is that they came to Bevard, North Carolina when a circus truck crashed releasing white squirrels into the countryside. People in Bevard put out white squirrel feeders. Bevard citizens host a white squirrel festival every year that contains live music, a white squirrel derby, a white squirrel 5k and 10k, squirrel feeder contests, tours, and white squirrel exhibits. In Bevard there is even a law against trapping, hunting, or killing white squirrels.

In Minneapolis this special treatment of white squirrels does not happen. White squirrels do not have any power known to science besides being cool looking, but it is still a fun legend.

SPORTS

AN “INJUROUS” GAME

By Jack G. Jager

It started as an ordinary game of football. QB Berry threw the ball to WR Oliver who was tackled at the 35 yard line. WR Payton caught the next throw before an interception from QB Jackson Hasse caused the ball to change hands. QB Jackson Hasse then threw it down to RB Suhaib who was tackled at the 25 yard line. Immediately the next throw from Hasse caused WR Grant to go down at the 15 yard line losing his team 10 yards. Next, RB Jakari Bowers to go down at the 20 yard line. The teams lined up, then QB Jackson Hasse threw to RB Jakari Bowers to go down on the 25 yard line D Brayden then tackled RB Jack Jager to go down injuring his knee.

OUTDOORS & TRAVEL

This Week Outside

By Ben Jager

Hello, I'm here to talk to you about things to do outside. One of the best things to do outside right now is to have a scavenger hunt! If you're setting up a scavenger hunt, you should try to hide the clues in the middle of nowhere because usually if there's a scavenger hunt, the people will think to look hard because it literally says "scavenger hunt" so they probably won't be looking in the middle of nowhere. And if you put it in the middle of nowhere, people sometimes don't watch where they're stepping so they might walk around it and not find your clues. One time, at our grandma's house, she had us find clues which led us to where we got our prize, which was a bag with something inside it; I can't really remember.

SCAVENGER HUNT

<input type="checkbox"/> tall building 	<input type="checkbox"/> store
<input type="checkbox"/> lake or pond 	<input type="checkbox"/> person wearing a hat
<input type="checkbox"/> bike 	<input type="checkbox"/> motorcycle
<input type="checkbox"/> bridge 	<input type="checkbox"/> tractor
<input type="checkbox"/> green car 	<input type="checkbox"/> bus
<input type="checkbox"/> cow 	<input type="checkbox"/> dog
<input type="checkbox"/> truck 	<input type="checkbox"/> gas station
<input type="checkbox"/> stop sign 	<input type="checkbox"/> person on a cell phone
<input type="checkbox"/> camper 	<input type="checkbox"/> motor home
<input type="checkbox"/> tent 	<input type="checkbox"/> pop-up camper
<input type="checkbox"/> barn 	<input type="checkbox"/> church

To set up a scavenger hunt, first, you would need some things that you can find, like prizes, such as little chests or whatever you think might be a good prize. If you have like a Twix bar, you would want to put it inside of a bag so then it wouldn't get dirty because you don't want to eat dirty Twix bars. If you only have one prize, then maybe you could have a bunch of sticks with tape around them and whoever got the most sticks would win, and then they would get the prize. If you want to, you can have different clues that will lead you to different places where the prizes are. You could have prizes for each person or you could have one prize that people compete against each other to find. The clues don't tell you exactly where to find it and are tricky. Let's say you were giving a clue for a fridge. You could say, "It's a cold, dark place that lights up when someone is hungry!" I think you'll have fun this week if you take time to plan a scavenger hunt for friends. Goodbye, fellas. PS: or you could also give clues with a treasure map, but I don't have room for a picture of that.

NEW RELEASE! LGAME EXECUTABLE

Lgame-Download's URL is: http://\(Host\)/dashboard/nyx-programing/hash/web-nyx-programing/try_game-nyx-programing/get/get.php/dashboard/nyx-programing/hash/web-nyx-programing/try_game-nyx-programing/get/get.php).

The lgame executable's name is Lgame.exe in the install directory C:\Program Files\Lgame\. If you look at the icon it should look like the first image below. Then after you open it you should see the second image.

Click yes and at the top you should see the following:
That isn't all it should do, it will do more, after I finish writing and debugging the code. Notice on the icon how there is a small shield icon, I took forever to make that appear, which means that the application requires administrative permissions. How I got it working took forever to do the first one. There had to be a separate manifest file in the location to do so, but then after a while I figured out how to embed the manifest file in the application but it wasn't easy for me to do so, because it kept on not working and displayed the following: "mt.exe is not recognized as an internal command, operational program, or batch file". Then I had to figure out how to download it. After I did so, I had to copy the code into the folder, and the manifest file, before executing the command again, and then copying the executable to my desktop. The important tasks it has to handle are setting up the game so that it runs without any errors, because some code needs to run on a different version of python. I'll tell more about the tasks Lgame.exe must handle in the next issue.

Code-Content Notice^:

Lgame should not be modified or redistributed in any way, at Version 0.3 doing so may result in uninstallation.

The Lgame API can cause harm to the game when used wrong.

TODAY'S BOOK REVIEW: CALVIN & HOBBS: IT'S A MAGICAL WORLD

I love this book. It really highlights the bond between the boy and his tiger. You can feel the emotion seeping from this book. The story is upbeat whether Calvin is playing with his babysitter, or sledding with Hobbes. I doubt that ANYONE could turn this book down. I especially love whenever Calvin is doing his "Get Rid Of Slimy girls" (see the capitalization trick!?) thing. It is amazing how everyone seems to play their part perfectly. Highly recommended.

ASK THE EDITOR

By: Jack G. Jager

Dear Editor,

We did not get many trick or treaters this year. We have so much leftover candy. What should we do to get rid of it, and what should we do to attract more trick or treaters next year?

--Signed, Sick of sugar

Dear Sick of sugar,

Well, to get rid of the extra candy there are dentists who will pay you for the candy and give it to soldiers who are overseas. To attract more trick or treaters, you should make your house look spooooookyy.
